

15 Nov 07 - BHS honours an exceptional trainer: Sue Payne

The British Horse Society today (Thursday, 15 November 2007) showed its appreciation to the individuals and have supported the leading equestrian charity's work - at an awards ceremony in London. The BHS presented individuals or organisations who have made an outstanding contribution to the BHS's work, at the event at Sad City of London.

In presenting the Trainers Award to Sue Payne of Shenley, Hertfordshire, Desi Dillingham, BHS President, said:

"Sue Payne 2010 is a dedicated trainer of the highest quality who shows that she can empathise with her pupils. She is renowned for her excellent work with exam candidates, and regularly trains and mentors candidates for their BHSI and Fellowship Exam.

Sue has trained many eventers at different levels, and supports them at competitions whenever she can. She also trained Anna Ross Davies, a key member of the GB dressage team.

Sue has been a Where to Train Inspector since 1994, and was instrumental in the development of the high standards required for Where to Train inspection. She is a very thorough and an utterly reliable Inspector.

A life member of the Society, Sue has been training for a considerable number of years. She passed her Fellowship in 1987, and is now one of only a handful of Fellows who examine for the Fellowship."
